

Primary to all rec activities is the code of conduct all parents or participants are required to sign on the registration form for sports which says:

"By signing this Code of Conduct, I indicate I understand the rules of behavior, to wit: any of the following behaviors at practices or games is unacceptable: 1) cursing, vulgarity, or any language or action that is derogatory or demeaning to any other person, 2) violence or disrespect, verbally or physically, toward any coach, player or referee, and further more I acknowledge that anyone, player, coach or spectator, breaking this code can and may be required to leave practices and/or games, and that if further similar bad behavior is demonstrated, will be barred from any future game or practice.

There are risks inherent with any sport or recreational activity. Parents and participants need to understand through training and experience what those risks are, and avoid the ones they can. Precautions are taken by staff and management to reduce and mitigate risks, but risk will never be completely eliminated.
